

an order from Judge McAvoy to show cause why Judge O'Dwyer's order should not be vacated. This motion was denied by Judge McAvoy, with $10 added costs, and examination set for July 5.

Neither Berkeley nor his brother appeared, and Judge McAvoy ordered Berkeley to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt.

Dr. Berkeley started mandamus proceedings against County Clerk Schneider to show cause why he should not be forced to strike off the judgment for $25 costs, and obtained from Supreme Court Justice Goff an order to show cause before Justice Gavegan why all proceedings should not be stayed, pending mandamus proceedings. Justice Gavegan dismissed the motion, with still another $10 costs.

July 10 Judge McAvoy fined Berkeley $35 for contempt of court, and ordered that if the fine was not paid in 10 days, the doctor be committed.

July 17 Justice Giegerich denied the mandamus proceedings, the corporation counsel representing the county clerk with a brief.

July 25 Judge McAvoy signed commitment papers, which were given to the sheriff's office to serve. They have not been served yet.

The under sheriffs say they never can catch the doctor at home, except in the evening, and it isn't right to arrest a man at night, when he can't very well get bail.

Dagny has another job, and it looks as if she will have to get along without the $12.45.

WHY HE WAS BLIND

The reporter who had accompanied the special train to the scene of the wreck hurried down the embankment and found a man who had one arm in a sling, a bandage over one eye, his front teeth gone and his nose knocked four points to starboard, sitting on a piece of the locomotive and surveying the horrible ruin all about him.

"Can you give me some particulars of this accident?" asked the reporter, taking out his notebook.

"I haven't heard of any accident, young man," replied the disfigured party, stiffly.

It's foolish, perhaps, to add that he was a director of the railroad company.

"Well, if there isn't that pesky rheumatism in my leg again!"
